Winter Playground On The Gardner-Webb Campus

Things are moving rapidly at Gardner-Webb.

The enrollment has reached 640, and paid applications for next year are one hundred per cent above this time last year. It is encouraging that people of merit want to come to Gardner-Webb. However, I hope that numbers will never be our chief concern. Quality, not numbers, will hold the interest of those who matter most.

DR. ELLIOTT

The walls of the new science classroom building are now out of the ground and will go rapidly once the weather improves. This is to be one of the best planned science buildings in this area.

On May 4, the Special Convention of North Carolina Baptists will meet to determine plans and procedures for raising $45 million for our seven colleges to enable them to increase the number of students fifty per cent. This is the most challenging forward step in my lifetime. If we undertake and succeed in this, North Carolina Baptists will jump into world leadership. It is my prayer that our people will catch the thrill of what this can mean to our world program.

Plans are going forward for a new church plant in the village. This is as important to our program as a college building. Our convention has failed in one of the most vital areas of our service by not encouraging an adequate church plant hard by every two-year college. Thus hampered for lack of necessary facilities, Gardner-Webb is yet turning out a wealth of trained young people the other colleges and universities and the world are glad to receive.

We hope you are as proud of your college, as your college is of you.

Sincerely yours,

P. L. Elliott

ON THE COVER . . .

A glaze of ice blanketed the campus on Jan. 26 and again on Feb. 3. Most of the precipitation was sleet, with occasional bits of snow. Traffic conditions became hazardous for a short time, keeping many of the commuters from attending classes for a day or two. Temperatures dropped to almost zero in the Boiling Springs area during the first siege of real winter weather.

Rob Weir from Chester, S. C., and Jimmy Ray Hamrick of Boiling Springs, like many another student, wasted no time in finding the best way to cope with the cold. With a sled borrowed from townsboys, students made the slight incline from Main Street by the new Webb Building to the Gardner Building a winter playground.

Other students, in an attempt to avoid the weather, stuck close to the dormitory, the library, or the classroom.

About This Issue . . .

News is a never-ending entity. People never cease to do things that are worth reporting. Events concerning these people never cease to be interesting. Occasionally fate gives an unusual twist to some phase of a person's life—and thus that person and his event prove to be newsworthy for that reason. News of Gardner-Webb College, its alumni, faculty, administration, and students continue to make headlines. Much of this news is found in the following pages of your Quarterly.

Alluring Alumni: Mrs. Nancy Griffin, secretary in the public relations department and alumni secretary, could keep busy by doing nothing but tracking our alumni. With the number growing larger with each graduating class, her challenge is becoming keener and keener. Will you do your part by keeping her posted on your latest achievement, your latest address, that big event in your life? Dozens of Quarterlies come back to us each time with incorrect addresses.

Progress: Our president, Dr. Elliott, was thrilled, along with the rest of us to see the new science building becoming a reality. By Alumni Banquet time, you'll have a chance to see it yourself. It's a joy to know that our College continues to grow.

Commentary: Our alumni president quotes a poem to make a point on his page of this issue. Read his page and ask yourself this question: "What is my relation to my Alma Mater's future?" On the page to the left, Dr. Elliott reviews recent progress, and Vice-President W. Lawson Allen has a vital message in a special feature. Your editor writes of an outstanding educator's accomplishment.

Here and There: Beauty queens, a farewell to an institution, a committee's search, a story of heroism, and other items of interest are within these pages.

An Early Reminder . . .

PLAN TO ATTEND ALUMNI BANQUET

Alumni Banquet time is again approaching. The occasion is scheduled for Saturday, May 27, at 7 o'clock in the Gardner Building.

So make your plans early to be at this special occasion—the reunion of old friends in the friendly setting of their Alma Mater.

Don't let the years slip by with the thought that "Next year I'll attend." Lend your school your loyal support and enjoy one of the school's big social occasions by attending the Alumni Banquet.

Classes in special reunion will be those of 1912, 1917, 1922, 1927, 1932, 1937, 1942, 1947, 1952, 1957, and the graduating class.

Our Alumni President Speaks

Dear Alumni of Gardner-Webb:

Another year has swiftly passed by, and the New Year is holding out new challenges and opportunities for you and me as component parts of our college. Indeed, the free world is facing the greatest test of all times. If Christian influences are not extended to other parts of the world, communism will continue to take over countries that we should win to Christianity.

Let us not forget that institutions such as Gardner-Webb College hold the key to freedom and liberty for mankind everywhere. You are a stockholder in this great college, and it is dependent upon your support for its future existence and service to the youth of our land. We must think only of victory. It is ours if we are willing to pay the price and make the sacrifices which it requires.

It is inspiring to see the new science building rising on the campus of the college, and to see ground improvements being made around the new Webb Administration Building, which is now serving the needs of the faculty and administrative officers of the institution. If you have not seen this new building, try to do so soon. It will cause your heart to swell with gratitude.

When you contribute to Gardner-Webb, you are building opportunities for others who will come the way you have already traveled. The thought is expressed in a poem which, I am told, was found on the streets of the City of New Orleans many years ago and was composed by an unknown author. It is entitled "Unknown Sea—Unseen Shore":

An old man, traveling a lone highway,
Came at the evening, cold and gray,
To a chasm deep and wide;
The old man crossed in the twilight dim;
The sullen stream had no fears for him.
But he turned when safe on the other side
And built a bridge to span the tide.
"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near,
"You are wasting your strength in building here;
Your journey will end with the ending day;
You never again will pass this way;
You've crossed the chasm deep and wide,
Why build you the bridge at eventide?"
The builder lifted his old gray head.
"Good friend, in the path I've come," he said,
"There followeth after me today
A youth whose feet must pass this way.
This chasm that was as naught to me,
To this fair youth may a pitfall be;
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim;
Good friend, I am building the bridge for him."

PRESIDENT ELLIOTT TO RETIRE

Dr. Phil L. Elliott, president of Gardner-Webb since 1943, at the annual president's dinner Nov. 29, 1960, gave notice that he will terminate his presidency this year, provided a successor is secured.

"I have a conviction that for the best interests of the College, perhaps it will be better that my presidency be terminated Aug. 1, 1961, rather than Aug. 1, 1962, when my retirement becomes mandatory," Dr. Elliott said in his letter to the board of trustees.

The President named three considerations that prompted his action:

1. the time that may be necessary in reorganizing the administration;
2. the time that will be necessary in securing a successor; and
3. the requirements of the program of advance contemplated by the Baptist State Convention.

The board of trustees approved the Elliott request that steps be taken to effect the transfer of the administration by the date named "or as soon thereafter as in your wisdom seems best."

Mrs. Rush Stroup, chairwoman of the board of trustees, named a committee to survey the field to find a successor to the retiring president. Another trustee committee was named to write resolutions and make arrangements as may be necessary during the transition period.

Dr. Elliott indicated in his message to the faculty and trustees that the College, in his opinion, is at its highest peak of development and efficiency during his administration. He pointed to the largest and highest quality student body during his years in office.

"Prospects for next year are even brighter," he added.

The 69-year-old educator recognized department heads, deans, other administrators and their staffs and the instructional staff for their contributions to a smooth-working college.

Dr. Elliott credited his wife with an unfailing dedication during his term as president.

Concluding his message to the group, Dr. Elliott said, "In pride and gratitude I give you this smooth - working organization dominated not by authority, command, or by administrative techniques, but by love and thrill of building a great institution together, utilizing these other things as means to that greater end."

"I am, therefore, not running from a serious situation . . . I am suggestnig that this is best in releasing your hands so that you may act responsibly and without embarrassment. I am making an effort to do for our College the most unselfish thing I have ever done."

Dr. Elliott . . . retiring after a distinguished career

COMMITTEE IN SEARCH OF A MAN . . .

To find the right man for a big job: that's the task of the committee named to survey the field and recommend to the board of trustees a man for the presidency.

Dr. Eugene Poston, faculty member on the committee and its secretary, has indicated that a great deal of contacting and studying have already come out of the committee's work. One of the first tasks of the committee, for example, was to determine the type of man needed for the job. Another was to determine the ways and means of securing a successor.

"Much study of the school and the future of the school necessarily resulted from our investigations," Poston said.

The Bible professor was quick to point out that the committee, which has met four times, merely recommends. The board of trustees must elect the new president.

One thing is definitely agreed upon by the committee members: Dr. Elliott's successor must be a dedicated Christian man who is deeply concerned with the spiritual and academic future of the College.

Members of the committee other than Dr. Poston are J. R. Dover, Jr., chairman; Claude S. Hinson, Mrs. O. Max Gardner, Leonard Lowe, and Clifford Hamrick. Mrs. Rush Stroup, chairwoman of the board, is an ex officio member.

ALUMNA WINS BEAUTY CROWN

Miss Joan Cline of Waco, the 1959 May Queen at Gardner-Webb, has added another beauty title to an already long list. She reigned as queen of the North State Conference Basketball Tournament in Lexington, Feb. 22-25.

Joan, a senior at Catawba College, is majoring in physical education. She was named "Miss North State Tournament" by the college senate. She reigned over the tournament and presented trophies to the winning and runner-up teams and was a special guest at social functions during the tournament week.

'59 May Queen: another crown

The stately beauty queen was Maid of Honor as a freshman at Gardner-Webb in 1958. She was also chief cheerleader.

The former Cleveland County Dairy Princess reigned as the 1959 "Miss Shelby" and was tabbed "Miss Heartburn of '60" last year at Catawba.

Farewell To An "Institution" . . .

The end of the first semester brought a long-delayed farewell to reality, when Dorsey Hoggard, affectionately known to many editions of Gardner-Webb students as the "senior citizen" of the College, finally departed.

If plans materialize, Dorsey will enroll in March at Western Carolina College for the spring semester.

Dorsey . . . finally, a farewell

Many of the alumni, especially those of recent vintage, will remember Dorsey for his spontaneous good nature, his wit, and his knack for getting things done.

For several seasons he was an official or unofficial cheerleader—in any sense, a leader of school spirit. And it was jokingly said that Dorsey accomplished what no other person has ever been able to accomplish: make a four-year college of Gardner-Webb.

Our best wishes went with Dorsey, who almost became, in the course of his years here, an institution himself.

Mrs. Rush Stroup Re-Elected Board Chairwoman

Mrs. Rush Stroup, Shelby businesswoman and College benefactor, was re-elected chairwoman of the board of trustees at the meeting of that group Nov. 29, 1960.

Mrs. Stroup's election last year marked the first time in history that a woman had been named to a full term of office as chairwoman of the board of trustees for a North Carolina Baptist College.

Mrs. Stroup has served as a trustee of Mars Hill and Wake Forest colleges. She has served the College in numerous capacities during the last twenty - five years. Among other honors is the fact that the girls' dormitory at Gardner-Webb is named in her honor.

Other officers named to serve with Mrs. Stroup are Horace Easom, vice-chairman; J. C. Hames, secretary; and Clifford Hamrick, treasurer.

Serving with these officers on the executive committee will be committee chairmen: the Rev. M. O. Owens, Jr., Richard A. Williams, the Rev. Wilson Padgett, and Claude S. Hinson, and Mrs. O. Max Gardner and A. T. Withrow, members at large.

The 1960 appointees to the board of trustees are the Rev. R. O. Baker, Cramerton; Toliver Davis, Forest City; the Rev. Robert P. Hamby, Connelly Springs; J. C. Hames, Cliffside; I. A. McLain, Marion; the Rev. Wilson Padgett, Shelby; and Miss Charline Stamey, Fallston.

Board officers: Horace Easom, Mrs. Rush Stroup, J. C. Hames, and Clifford Hamrick

Owens, Jr.

G-W GRADUATE APPOINTED MISSION- ARY TO GUAM

The Reverend Harry A. Goble, G-W graduate, and Mrs. Goble were among 28 new missionaries commissioned by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board in its December meeting in Richmond, Va. The Gobles were one of four North Carolina couples named for foreign mission work.

The Gobles will work with English-speaking people on Guam, a Pacific territory of the United States where about 20,000 State side American families live and work.

A native of Gastonia, Rev. Goble is a 1949 graduate of Gardner-Webb. He graduated from Carson-Newman College and received the Bachelor of Divinity degree from New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary in 1954. That year he went to Winston-Salem as mission pastor for Ardmore Church; he became pastor of Griffith Church in 1956, when it was constituted from Ardmore's Old Salisbury Road Chapel.

Mrs. Goble is the former Miss Doris Anne Cash of Winston-Salem. A graduate of Wake Forest College, she works as publicity director for a Winston-Salem publisher and teaches piano lessons.

The Gobles have a son, Kent Anderson, two.

G-W Alumnus Gets Silver Star

Howard C. Davenport, '55, loyal G-W alumnus, was awarded the Silver Star Jan. 15, in ceremonies conducted by the First 105-mm Howitzer Battery, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, Chattanooga, Tenn.

The medal was presented for conspicuous gallantry in action while Davenport was a member of a reconnaissance company in Korea on Oct. 4, 1952. Capt. Robert A. Applewhite, battery commander, made the presentation. A parade was held in Davenport's honor.

The citation he received reads, in part, "For conspicuous gallantry . . . while serving as a member of Reconnaissance Company . . . in action against enemy aggressor forces in Korea. When his patrol was ambushed by a numerically superior enemy force, Pfc. Davenport . . . continually exposed himself to hostile fire in moving across open terrain to resupply arms and ammunition, in order to keep the rear-guard action effective. . . ."

Davenport, Gastonia native, joined the Marine Corps in 1951, shortly after graduation from Ashley High School. After training in the states, he was sent to Korea for eight months with the First Marine Division.

Twice wounded, he was awarded the Purple Heart both times. The second wound, more serious than the first, necessitated eight months of hospitalization. Finally, Davenport was discharged because of disability.

Returning home, he attended Gardner-Webb and later graduated from Clemson College. He is married to the former Miss Nancy Gray Luffman, '55, of Elkin, whom he met while at Gardner-Webb. Davenport is currently Eastern Tennessee district engineer for Shell Oil Co., with headquarters in Chattanooga.

The producers of the program hope to give emphasis to distinc-

Mr. Burris

Former Students Listed In Who's Who

The Alumni Office has received word that five former Gardner-Webb students have been recently named to Who's Who lists.

Doris Walters, '59 graduate of Gastonia, has been named to Who's Who at Carson-Newman College.

Tim Brackett, '58, of Lawndale, was chosen recently to represent A.S.T.C. in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. He has consistently been on the honor roll, was junior marshal, and was a parade marshal for homecoming this year. He is president of the N. C. Future Business Leaders of America. He is a senior, majoring in business education.

Henry L. Fogle, Jr., '55 graduate of Shelby, has been selected to be included in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, also. He is a senior at Fresno State College, Fresno, Calif.

Two former summer school students at G-W—Saralyn Blanton of Shelby and Thomas Reid Blackburn of Mooresboro — have been named to Who's Who Among Stutive styles or methods of teaching.

The series of educational programs will be produced by the American Broadcasting Company in cooperation with the National Education Association and the Association for Higher Education.

The hope of the nominating committee in presenting Burris as a candidate was to bring to the public, if he is selected from the long list of nominees, the distinct advantages of a small Christian junior college. Another basis for selection was Burris' vigorous teaching personality. It was noted by the committee that the professor's family background, training, and personality enrich his qualifications for teaching in a junior college with Christian ideals.

Burris, the third of six children, is the son of a Baptist preacher and college president. He is a graduate of Wingate Junior College and Wake Forest College. He holds the B. D. degree from Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary and the M. A. degree from Duke University. He is presently working toward a doctorate at Duke.

Burris spent four years of active duty with the U. S. Navy and is a lieutenant in the Naval Reserve. He is in his third year at Gardner-Webb.

Contract Let, Construction Begins

ANOTHER BUILDING FOR G-W

Construction of a science building began around the first of the year. The new structure is reaching its brick walls to the sky on the west side of the campus, between Dover Memorial Library and Decker Hall.

The contract was let in late December to P. S. West Construction Company of Statesville. The executive committee of the Board of Trustees, Wilburn T. Hendrix, chairman, accepted the lowest of 14 base bids.

West's bid of $182,700 was more than $30,000 less than C. P. Neal Construction Co.'s high of $225,178. The contract calls for completion of the building by Aug. 15. A $100-a-day penalty will be imposed for any delay in completion of the new structure. The deadline will make it possible for the College to have the building properly equipped and ready for use by the opening of the new school term.

The two-story addition will contain seven classrooms and all laboratories for two years of study in chemistry, biology, and physics. One of the classrooms will seat 154 students. The building will measure 153.6 by 66 feet, providing for more than 20,000 square feet of space.

Henry I. Gaines, of Six Associates, Inc., architects and engineers of Asheville, was special architect for the building.

Memorial Donations For 1960 Above Average

Memorial donations to the Gardner-Webb College Endowment Fund totaled $1,687.37 for the year 1960. This amount brought the total endowment to around $30,000 since its establishment in 1947.

For 1960, 475 donors making 75 memorials, contributed to the endowment. The largest amount was contributed in February by more than 150 individuals in memory of 13 individuals.

The endowment memorial contributions for 1960 were above average, according to officials at the College.

Two sleets halt construction briefly, but the new building continues to rise.

Reynolds Grant for Building $10,000

The Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation of Winston-Salem, Richard J. Reynolds, president, announced in December grants totalling more than $1 million, $10,000 of which will go to Gardner-Webb. The grant is to be used toward the cost of construction of the science building.

Reynolds grants were made to five other colleges, one high school, and three other organizations.

DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM CONTINUES

By W. Lawson Allen, Vice-President

The special campaign for funds for immediate needs closed on Feb. 1 with total pledges of $508,455.98. However, the Development Program goes on with its various facets.

To the extent of the pledges collected, the immediate needs will be met and other funds are being sought for other projects. The Webb Administration Building has been completed, made possible by a gift from the O. Max Gardner Foundation. The science building is being erected.

Plans for Living Endowment, an effort in which all alumni may have a part, are already being put into effect. Every person who has attended the high school or the college can do something. With every one doing a little we can watch annual alumni giving rise every year.

Another phase of Development is that of seeking funds for capital needs. The next step would include dormitories, classroom building, enlarging the cafeteria, and building an auditorium to meet the needs of a growing college.

The alumni can help in other phases of our work. Do you as a former student know of good students who ought to go to college? You can direct them this way. Do you know someone who could make a gift? Have you made your will? Have you used your influence in behalf of the college? Your college always needs your help and welcomes your suggestions.

Deaths

Gene Arden Shell, '48, age 35, of Forest City, died in Rutherford Hospital Dec. 15, 1960. Shell was supervisor at Laurel Mills in Rutherfordton. He was a veteran of World War II. After attending Gardner-Webb, he attended N. C. State College, from which he was graduated in 1950. He was a member of the Alexander Mills Baptist Church.

Mrs. Lillie Whitaker Price, 69, wife of R. E. Price, former chairman of the board of trustees, died Dec. 19, 1960, in the Rutherford County Hospital, following a long illness. Mrs. Price was a member of the First Baptist Church in Rutherfordton and was active in church and community affairs.

Walt Jones, father of Dean of Women Doris Jones, died suddenly in Greenville, S. C., Jan. 21. He was 63. He had been in declining health for several years.

Mrs. D. A. Russell, mother of Mrs. Allen Burris, assistant librarian, died Dec. 20, 1960, after an illness of two weeks. She was 72.

Summer School Plans Materializing

Dean of Instruction J. O. Terrell has announced that plans for the seventeenth summer session at Gardner-Webb are virtually complete.

More than twenty-five courses in ten areas of study will be offered to students wishing to make up deficiencies or to accelerate their college programs.

Dormitories and the cafeteria will be open for students who wish to remain on campus. An added attraction for the hot weather session will be free admission to the college swimming pool.

Dean Terrell indicates that the teaching staff will be one of the strongest ever for a summer session. Two of the nine teachers have doctorate degrees, and most of the others have master's degrees, all nine with many years of experience in their respective areas of instruction.

The 1960 summer school had an enrollment of 140. Registrar Dorothy W. Hamrick estimated that about the same number or more would enroll for summer study in 1961.

The session opens June 5 and closes Aug. 5.

Commencement Speakers Named

According to information received from Dr. Elliott, commencement speakers have been named to deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, May 28, 8:00 p.m., and the literary address at graduation on Monday, May 29, 10:30 a.m.

Dr. G. Othell Hand, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Hickory, will preach the sermon. Dr. Hand came to the First Church from Jacksonville, Fla.

Dr. Carlyle Campbell, president of Meredith College for the last twenty years, will deliver the commencement address. Dr. Campbell had previously been president of Coker College, Hartsville, S. C. He is the son of the late J. A. Campbell, founder of Buies Creek Academy, which later became Campbell College.

GARDNER-WEBB IS A "FAMILY" COLLEGE

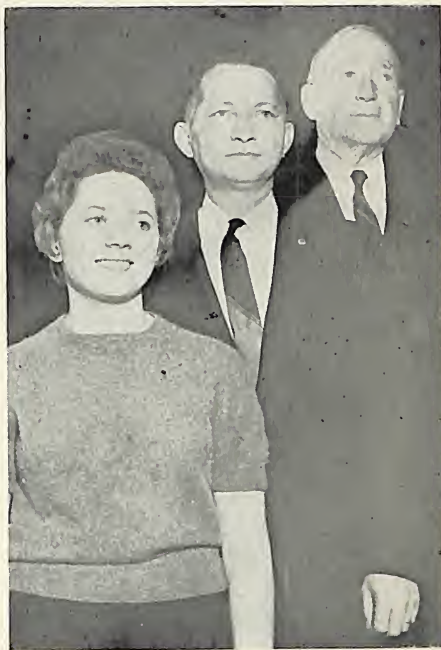

Five students on the campus this year represent the third generation of their families to attend Gardner-Webb. Jane Beason was preceded by her mother and grandmother; Lora Lipscomb High and her cousin Eddie Lipscomb were preceded by a father and a grandmother. Jesse Sprinkle, III, was preceded by his father and grandfather, bearing the same name. Teresa Hamrick Huggins was preceded by her father and grandfather, for many years associated with the high school and college.

In fact, Gardner-Webb seems to be quite a family college. More than 160 of the more than 600 students enrolled were preceded by another member of the family. Family influence definitely proved to be strong when Gardner-Webb students started selecting a college.

Fifty-two brothers and 45 sisters of present students were enrolled before the present crop of students enrolled. Thirty - eight fathers and 19 mothers have preceded their sons or daughters here. Grandfathers number four; grandmothers, three; uncles, 20; and aunts, 21. In-laws and cousins run quite high.

Sophomore Amelia Hedrick is the granddaughter of the school's first head, Prof. J. D. Huggins. Her parents and older sister are former students.

Ellen Washburn names more than twenty relatives who preceded her. Carol Lou Hamrick and Teresa Hamrick Huggins have between them more than fifty relatives who have attended Gardner-Webb.

ALL-CONFERENCE CAGERS LEAD BULLDOGS

All - Conference cagers Lloyd Wall, and Jerry Beane have led the Bulldog basketball team so far this season. As we go to press, four games and the tournament remain to be played.

Statistics for the last several games are not complete, but Beane has scored close to 400 points in 18 games, has snagged nearly 200 rebounds, and has made close to 60 assists. He ranks about fifth in the conference in scoring. Wall has to his credit more than 250 points, about 150 rebounds, and more than 50 assists.

In the Asheville-Biltmore game of Feb. 8, the team hit 110 points, compared with the opposition's 52. An interesting note is that the team has consistently played better ball the second half of each game.

The record to date is 8-10, with 5-7 in the conference. Coach Bob Blackburn is in his third year as mentor of the Bulldogs.

Across The Desk

Michael H. Palmer

One of the miraculous chapters of educational development of our time will end with the retirement of Dr. Elliott in August, "provided a successor is found by that time." Gardner-Webb was a struggling little school, hit hard by the depression, when Dr. Elliott was called to assume the leadership in 1943. The tremendous growth that the College has experienced and the prestige that it has attained has been largely the result of the forethought, devotion, and dedication of one of the real educators of our state.

Mr. Palmer

Gardner-Webb, tagged as "the cinderella college of North Carolina," hardly resembles today the school whose reins Dr. Elliott took firmly in hand 18 years ago. Only one building still stands from that era. Eight major structures, with faculty housing and various other plant improvements tossed in, have been added (one within the last year) since Dr. Elliott took over the presidency. A ninth building was begun the first of the year and is expected to be completed by September.

Some idea of the material progress made in these years can be derived from figures on the value of the College plant then and now. When Dr. Elliott became president in 1943, the estimated value of the College was a quarter-million dollars—with 35 acres of land and five old buildings. Today the value is more than two million five hundred thousand—with 1,100 acres of land and 26 buildings. The cinderella college? Yes.

But material growth is only one facet of the record of a man whose unselfish efforts, abiding love, and searching dedication have touched the lives of hundreds who have come seeking knowledge and the proper way to use and appreciate that knowledge. Students and alumni surely must count Dr. Elliott a major influence in their lives.

Our president's announced retirement brought editorial commentary from many papers of the state. Words only of praise for a task well done and good wishes for the future followed on the heels of the published news.

Eighteen years of dedicated service to education will officially end with Dr. Elliott's retirement. The monument to this unselfish act is the institution that has been wrought at Boiling Springs. We hope that our president will be around for many more years to inspire and encourage. We trust that his successor will lead our college in a spirit dedicated to God.

The committee named to search out the next president has been diligently working to find the man worthy of the task, which carries with it a mighty challenge and a great honor.
